

This Yom Ha'atzmaut, the contrast is clear.

While our children plan their futures, Israel's warriors risked everything to protect them.

The war doesn't end when they come home. For thousands of wounded warriors, the real battle, the lifelong journey of rehabilitation, begins.

Through Beit Halochem centers, your support provides:

- Physical rehabilitation
- Emotional healing
- Lifelong community and support

Our heroes held the line for us. Now, we must hold the line for their recovery.

Make your Yom Ha'atzmaut gift today.

Be there for them
when it matters most.

YEHOSHUA

JOSHUA (JEHOSHUA):

templeinstitute.org/donate

By: Emil G. Hirsch, Bernhard Pick israelarmy.net/Israel

Name of several Biblical personages.

In Hebrew יהושוע (Deut. iii. 21; Judges ii. 7) and commonly יהושע (Judges ii. 7a; Ex. xvii. 9; Josh. i. 1) correspond to אלישוע = "helped by Yhwh," the shorter form being הושע = "help" or "one who helped" (Num. xiii. 8; Deut. xxxii. 44; here probably an error for יהושוע). The Septuagint has Ἰησοῦς; the Vulgate, usually "Josue," but "Jesus" in Ecclus. (Sirach) xlvi. 1; I Macc. ii. 55; II Macc. xii. 15, identical with יושע, the post-exilic form of the name.

1. Biblical Data: The son of Nun

Appointed Moses' Successor.
 Conquest of Jericho.
 Division of the Land.
 His Faithful Service.
 The Change in His Name.
 Married to Rahab.

Dear Mr. Villa,

I'm Irit. I'm 24 and I'm a speech therapist for the Klalit insurance company.

Can I borrow you for a minute? Am I catching you in the middle of shelf-wiping? Vacuuming? The usual – Life? Business? A blessed quiet moment?

Stay with me, please.

Listen to my story.

Soon, all families will gather for the seder night and I'll be reminded of the years I spent that night alone .

I'll be taken back to the years where there was no semblance of royalty or freedom..

Yes, I had a house, but it was no home.

Yes, I had a heart, but it had long turned to stone.

The adults in my life misplaced my trust and abused my faith and I was left physically and emotionally starved. I tried to silence those hunger pangs to fill the emptiness inside, but it turned out wrong,

Wrong friends, wrong stuff, all wrong.

Mr. Edward, Things were worse than I thought, but thinking wasn't safe for me. So I just did. I hid behind a mask of too cool to care and got carried away with the waves.

Until I landed in Girls Town. I arrived with a charred soul, marred by the trauma of my life, my stance defiant and unfeeling. But with time they broke through, healing my heart, satiating my soul.

It's here that I relearned to love, to trust, to feel, and to heal. It's here that I learned that I can go and grow and become more than I ever thought

It took hours of weekly therapy to break through years of pain.
It took years of tiny steps to take the leap and leave that safe space, my only place.

over please

And during that time, the staff, the team, and the Girls Town family stood by my side. And they do it to the hundreds of girls who reach their doors.

They give of themselves so selflessly— caring, sharing, believing, and instilling hope.

This beautiful building is not built with bricks and stones; it's built with kindness, love, and acceptance.

Life at Girls Town is like living in a regular dorm. You can hardly tell that each girl comes with a story, with baggage. There are lessons, pranks, trips, and programs.

A staff of 45 professionals, a team of counselors, a family of people who care, who truly care, and who share in our pain and happiness with passion and professionalism.

It's a wholesome place. A place where girls get to explore themselves and the world while healing their wounds.

Drama classes

Jewish studies

Therapies

Recreational activities

Extra curricular programs

Girls Town, my house, my home...The place that I grew up in until I grew out of it.

It's from here that I took flight. Enrolled in a speech therapy program, and left to my own apartment to start a life of my own.

I'm grateful.

So grateful to be sharing the love I didn't receive in my youth. Doing what I never thought I could.

So, what do I want from you? A donation.

GIRLS TOWN CAN'T DO IT ALONE!

They rely on people like you to give generously to support their cause. People who stand behind them as they stand behind so many vulnerable young girls.

Tomorrow life will go on for you and me. But for so many others their life depends on Girls Town.

Can you give and help girls like me? So they have a chance to get out of their mess and live a life as a therapist, computer programmer, musician, or anything else their heart desires?

Please?

Irit

MY STORY

ODELYA BLUM*

Odelya Blum was born into a complicated family situation, which only went from bad to the unimaginable as she grew up. Both of her parents had been married and divorced, bringing their children from their first marriages into their new family. Unfortunately, when Odelya's mother was expecting her, her father was killed in a car accident. Needless to say, this horrific tragedy shattered Mrs. Blum, and as hard as she tried she just could not pull herself together enough to provide a stable home for Odelya and her half-sisters.

Odelya was brought to Girls Town Jerusalem by the social worker in charge of the Blum family so that she could receive the warmth and care she needed to help her develop properly. Although she was being raised in our Home she still had a close relationship with her mother. She was completely devastated when her mother fell sick, and passed away, leaving Odelya at the tender age of 10 years old a complete orphan.

One of Odelya's half-sisters, Sara, who also grew up in our orphanage, made Odelya a part of her family. Sara provided her with a loving caring home to come to whenever she left the dormitory. When Odelya was about 14 years old Sara suddenly got sick and, shockingly, a short while later died. Odelya felt she lost her second mother. At this point, Girls Town Jerusalem was truly the only home that Odelya.

Cave 4

Fragments of the Damascus Document from Cave 4.

consisted of an Admonition, a lengthy list of laws (greatly expanded in the Cave 4 fragments), and a concluding liturgy for the Feast of the Covenant Renewal. Philip R. Davies later studied the Damascus Document as a text modelled on the Covenant Renewal form, but the Cave 4 fragments were not then available to him or to other scholars. On the whole the text of the Cairo manuscripts is almost the same as those in Cave 4, but it remains uncertain whether there was one definitive version of this document (there certainly was not in the case of the Community Rule). It is not even certain that all the Cave 4 manuscripts contained an identical edition, and neither Milik nor Baumgarten, who took over the task of producing the official edition, has offered a definitive reconstruction of the original Damascus Document. The most significant variations from the Cairo texts in some of the Cave 4 manuscripts is an introductory discourse suggestive of the Two Spirits dualism of 1QS, and a Penal Code also similar to the disciplinary rules in 1QS. These additions may confirm, as was already suspected by Davies from the Cairo manuscripts, that the Damascus Document had been edited within the yahad, which had made small but important additions. This in turn implies that in some way the yahad developed from the 'Damascus' community. The suggestion remains disputed, but the differences between the D and S (as the collectively termed) remain sufficiently distinct to require some kind of explanation.

Praise for Jerusalem and King Jonathan

The first column of one Cave 4 fragment (4Q448) contains a psalm, at first unrecognised but now identified as a Hebrew version of Psalm 154 in the Syriac Old Testament, which is also found in 11QP^a.

But this discovery is as nothing compared with the next two columns, which contain a new hymn, written by a different scribe. Although it is in a fragmentary state, it has been deciphered by Ada Yardeni, with the main part as follows:

... holy city for King Jonathan and for all the congregation of your people Israel, who are in the four corners of heaven. May their peace be on your kingdom. Blessed be your name! (col. 1b)

'I will glory in your love... by day and until evening... to approach, to be... to visit them with

Documentary Texts

When the new editor-in-chief of the scrolls, Emanuel Tov, presented a list of still-unpublished scrolls from Cave 4 in 1992, he included a group of Aramaic, Hebrew and Nabataean comprising letters, records of debts, property conveyances and accounts for grains. Lack of such everyday documents had long puzzled scholars, and it was hoped that these texts would elucidate daily life at Qumran.

But are these texts actually from Qumran? In her edition of texts from the Wadi Seiyal, otherwise known as Nahal Hever, Ada Yardeni includes the so-called Cave 4 documentary texts only as an appendix, and expresses doubts over their origin. She does not claim to know where they came from, but for some she proposes Nahal Hever itself, 20 km (12 miles) south of Khirbet Qumran. This is because the so-called Cave 4 fragments include one from a manuscript found at Nahal Hever. She also notes that this kind of text is unlike the vast majority of materials in Cave 4. The cursive script is also quite different, and, finally, recent Carbon-14 dates for the manuscripts 4Q342 and 4Q344 date them long after the settlement at Khirbet Qumran was abandoned (p. 174).

Twelve of these manuscripts were written on leather and seven on papyrus. 4Q342 is a letter, datable by its script to the 1st century CE (Carbon-14: 11-115 CE). It mentions the names Yehudah, Elazar and Eshel. 4Q343, datable to c. 50 BCE, refers to Shimon, Gillyu and Bet Aphak. 4Q344, which Carbon-14 has dated 72-127 CE, is a promissory note mentioning a certain Eleazar bar Joseph.

... blessing... on your name which we call... kingdom to bless... day war... King Jonathan? (col. C)

The question upon which all scholars seized is: who is King Jonathan? The editors, Hanan and Esther Hassonson, King Alexander Jannaeus (Hebrew from 103 to 76 BCE), and who is possibly alluded to in that this psalm was that according to the received Hasmonaean. Hence the Eshels suggest that this hymn is now 'sectarian' (though they do not explain how or why it was used at Qumran). Geza Vermes has suggested an earlier Jonathan, the brother of Judas Maccabee and ruler of Judah from 160-142 BCE (well before the settlement at Qumran). Vermes regards this group that finally went to Qumran (hence this text) but later as having been their arch-enemy, the 'Wicked Priest' of the Habakkuk Commentary (which hardly

But palaeography and Carbon-14 do not always agree. 4Q345 is dated by its script to the middle to late 1st century BCE, but Carbon-14 gives the range 373-171 BCE. This fragment mentions the month of Ehi, 30 silver denarii, and the names Yeshua', Hoshiyah, and Yishma'el ben Shimon. 4Q346 and 4Q348 are also deeds, containing personal names; 4Q351-58 are accounts dealing with grain; 4Q359 is a papyrus deed and Yardeni suggests that 4Q360a must have been a literary text that referred to sacrifices.

But are none of these from Qumran? Cross and Eshel claim to have deciphered a deed of a gift, written on two ostraca that were discovered in 1996 at Khirbet Qumran and contained the names of individuals from Jericho and perhaps Engedi. They even claimed that it includes the word yahad, though this has since been contradicted. Nevertheless, it is not impossible that some of these texts came from Qumran. Indeed, since the site was certainly occupied for at least 150 years in the Graeco-Roman period, it would be surprising for no such texts to be found at all.

While it was once thought that the scrolls are consistently anti-Hasmonaean, such a bias is not really evident, and Robert Eisenman is one Qumran scholar who has always maintained that the scrolls writers were strongly pro-Hasmonaean. In fact, there are no obvious sectarian features to this hymn, but its presence in a Qumran cave is not especially problematic. The mention of historical persons, however, is so rare in the scrolls that this text is important, whoever it refers to.

The Aramaic Apocryphon of Daniel describes either a messianic figure or a boastful ruler that will arise as “Son of God” or “Son of the Most High”, like the apocalyptic redeemer in the biblical book of Daniel. The text calls to mind the New Testament proclamation of the angel Gabriel concerning the new-born Jesus: “He will be great, and will be called the Son of the Most High...” (Luke 1:32)

Benjamin stayed with his father when his brothers went down to Egypt to buy corn during the famine, but Joseph insisted that he should come down with them on their second visit. Having arrived at Jericho, the two spies remained at Rahab's house, situated in the wall of the city and having a window on the outside (Josh. ii. 1, 15). Rahab was ordered by the king, who had been informed of the arrival of the spies, to deliver them to him; she, however, hid them on the roof and declared that they had come and gone without her knowing who they were (ii. 3-6). In her conversation with the spies upon the roof, Rahab proved to have been well informed of the progress of the Israelites since they had crossed the Red Sea. She told them that she was certain of their final conquest of the land, and asked them to reward her by sparing herself and her whole family—her father, mother, brothers, and sisters, all of whom lived in the interior of the city (ii. 8-14).

The Letters of Jonathan Netanyahu: The Commander of the Entebbe

Rescue Force Hardcover – January 1, 2001

On 4th July, 1976, an Air France flight was hijacked, and 103 passengers, many of them Israeli citizens, were taken hostage in Entebbe, Uganda. The story of their rescue has become legend, and Lt.-Col. Jonathan Netanyahu, who led the operation and was killed during its execution, has become a modern-day hero.

As the world struggles with the barbarity of terrorism, the story of Entebbe, and Jonathan Netanyahu's role in it, are an inspiring and moving testimony to the ideals of democracy and freedom.

The Letters of Jonathan Netanyahu (Gefen Publishing, 2001) is a collection of personal letters penned by Netanyahu over a period of thirteen years, from high school in Philadelphia to the raid at Entebbe. Yoni, as he was known to family, friends, and the Israeli nation, is revealed as a devoted and serious man, deeply dedicated to his country and the soldiers under his command.

According to General Shlomo Gazit, a former Chief of Israel Military Intelligence, Yoni had a complex personality; on the one hand, he was a superb warrior and commander, brave and devoted, yet on the other hand, he was a man blessed with many other talents. with a rich and fertile imagination and an exceptionally analytical mind. It is this breadth of character that

2. Biblical Data: Eldest son of Saul (I Chron. viii. 33). Soon after his father's accession (I Sam. xiii. 2) Jonathan is represented as sharing his father's perils and enterprises, as the leader of a thousand men—one-third of the force kept under arms by Saul. Like Saul, Jonathan possessed great strength and agility, and, as becoming in a Benjamite, was a clever archer (II Sam. i. 22-23; I Chron. xii. 2). It was Jonathan who put to the sword the garrison of the Philistines in Geba, and thereby gave the signal for a general rising of the Israelites (I Sam. xiii. 3). This led to the complete overrunning of the land by the Philistines. The two armies, Israelitish and Philistine, met at the passage of Michmash, and took up positions on opposite sides of the ravine (I Sam. xiii. 16, 23). Jonathan, accompanied by his armor-bearer, scaled the opposite rock and surprised the Philistines, having previously decided to take an omen from the conduct of the enemy: if the enemy, on seeing him, should make a move as though about to attack him, he would wait in the ravine; but if the enemy dared him to ascend, he would do so. The latter took place, and the daring act of Jonathan put the Philistines to flight (I Sam. xiv. 6-23). On that occasion Jonathan narrowly escaped death at the hands of his father. Before pursuing the Philistines Saul had pronounced a curse upon any one who should eat before the evening; Jonathan, unaware of this, ate some honey, and Saul sentenced him to death; the people, however, interfered on his behalf and saved him (I Sam. xiv. 24-45).

Jonathan and David.

Jonathan's attachment to David began soon after the latter's victory over Goliath; "the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul" (I Sam. xviii. 1). The latter expression is repeated in I Sam. xx. 17, their love being further described in II Sam. i. 26 as "passing the love of women." The friendship was confirmed by a covenant, Jonathan giving David his garments, sword, and bow, and on several occasions David escaped death at the hands of Saul through the intervention of Jonathan. Their parting was full of pathos, and was

"Details how the scrolls, one of history's great language troves, depict the tumultuous Judean world of 2,000 years ago."—Natural History

Ever since the first scrolls were found in the Judean desert in 1947, the Dead Sea Scrolls have been the subject of passionate speculation and controversy. The possibility that they might challenge assumptions about ancient Judaism and the origins of Christianity, coupled with the extremely limited access imposed for many years, only fueled debate on their meanings.

With all the scrolls now available in translation, conclusions can be drawn as to the authorship and origins, their implications for Christianity and Judaism, and their link with the ancient site of Qumran. This book, written by three noted scholars in the field, draws together all the evidence to present a fully illustrated survey of every major manuscript.

With numerous factfiles, reconstructions, scroll photographs, and a wealth of other illustrations, it is the most comprehensive and accessible account available on the Dead Sea Scrolls. 84 color and 132 black-and-white illustrations

"How good and pleasant it is when God's people live together in unity"

— PSALMS 133:1

This book of Psalms is one of the best preserved biblical scrolls, containing 48 psalms, including 7 that are not found in the standard Masoretic version of the Bible. An additional prose passage provides one of the most ancient references to King David as the composer of the book of Psalms: "and David, the son of Jesse, was wise, and a light like the light of the sun... And he wrote 3,600 psalms." Psalm 133, shown here, praises peace and togetherness.

WHAT WE DO

With the full support of the IDF, and in cooperation with the Friends of the IDF (FIDF), the Nefesh B'Nefesh Lone Soldiers Program was established to assist and support the brave young men and women who choose to serve in the IDF, regardless of their country of origin.

The Lone Soldiers Program acts as the address for every Lone Soldier in Israel before, during, and after their service in the territory he offered the hand of Achsah, his daughter, to the man who would capture Hebron for him; the feat was accomplished and the maiden won by Caleb's younger brother, Othniel. To him was assigned the south land, to which later, at Achsah's request, "the upper springs" were added (Josh. xiv., xv.; and Judges i. passim). His name is connected with several towns in southern Judah (I Chron. ii.

SHALLUM.

By: Emil G. Hirsch, E. I. Nathans, Wilhelm Bacher, Louis Ginzberg

—Biblical Data:

1. King of Israel who dethroned Zechariah, the last of Jehu's dynasty, and succeeded him. He was in turn dethroned by Menahem (II Kings xv. 10-16).

2. Son of Josiah, King of Judah (Jer. xxii. 11). Probably the term is used merely as an epithet = "the desired one"; hence I Chron. iii. 15 makes Shallum the fourth son of Josiah.

3. Husband of Huldah, the prophetess (II Kings xxii. 14).

—In Rabbinical Literature:

Even at the time of the prophet Elisha, Shallum was one of the most eminent men ("mi-gedole ha-dor") in the country. Yet he did not think it beneath his dignity to lend personal aid to the poor and the needy.

ARK OF THE COVENANT(Hebrew, בְּרִית יְהוָה אֲרוֹן, etc.: for the complete list of names of the Ark, see below).

By: Morris Jastrow, Jr., Charles J. Mendelsohn, Marcus Jastrow, Isaac Husik, Duncan B. McDonald, George A. Barton

Dimensions and Construction.

—Biblical Data:

The first mention of the Ark in the Bible is in Ex. xxv. 10 et seq., where Moses on Mount Sinai is told to have an Ark of shittim-wood made for the Commandments which are about to be delivered. Minute directions are given for the plan of the Ark. It is to be 2½ cubits in length, 1½ in breadth, and 1½ in height. It is to be overlaid within and without with gold, and a crown or molding of gold is to be put around it. Four rings of gold are to be put into its corners—two on each side—and through these rings staves of shittim-wood overlaid with gold for carrying the Ark are to be inserted; and these are not to be removed. A golden cover (Hebr. כַּפֹּת; A. V., "mercy-seat"), adorned with golden cherubim, is to be placed above the Ark; and from here the Lord says He will speak to Moses (Ex. xxv. 10-22). The Ark is to be placed behind a veil, a full description of which is given (ib. xxvi. 31-33).

Ark of the Covenant.(After Calmet.)

Sanctity and Consecration.

Even Aaron was forbidden to enter this place of the Ark too often; and he was enjoined to perform certain ceremonies when entering there (Lev. xvi. 2 et seq.). Moses was directed to consecrate the Ark, when completed, with the oil of holy ointment (Ex.
